Play Tryouts Scheduled For Wednesday In Gate

Tryouts for the first "bill" of one-act plays will be held in the Gate Theatre, Wednesday, Sept. 29, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The plays are to be produced Friday evening, Oct. 15 as part of the Homecoming activities, and will be open to the general public.

Following this opening performance, the play casts tour throughout Ohio and will be available this school year for those organizations who wish a program for entertainment.

James Liedtke, Lucy Ann Liggett, Sarah Police, and Ken Shoemaker, graduate students in the department of speech, will direct the plays. Tryouts will be held in the following rooms of the Gate Theatre: "The Marriage Proposal," by Tchekoff in 12G; "The Monkey's Paw," by W. W. Jacobs in 18G; "Sorry, Wrong Number," by Fletcher in 13G, and "Wurzel-Flemmer," by A. A. Milne in 9G.

Most of the plays are on reserve at the Library for those people who are interested in reading them before tryouts. Anyone may tryout for one or all the plays. There are many opportunities existing for those persons who are interested in the technical phases of play production, and everyone is welcome to participate.

Panhel Presents Scholarship Cups

Sorority scholarship awards will be presented at Panhellenic Council meeting Tuesday night, Oct. 4, stated Nancy Weatherston, Panhellenic Council president.

Awards include three trophies, presented on the basis of last semester's grades. They are the Delta Gamma, sponsored Esther Russell cup, given to the sorority achieving the highest point average; a plaque for the pledge class with the highest average, sponsored by the Alpha Chi Omega's; and a trophy sponsored by the Bowling Green City Panhellenic, awarded to the sorority showing the most improvement over the previous semester's grades.

This bi-annual event is one of Panhellenic Council's methods for stressing the importance of scholarship among women students. Winner of the sorority point-average trophy last semester was Delta Gamma. Alpha Chi Omega received the Bowling Green Panhellenic trophy for greatest point-average improvement. No pledge trophy was awarded.

UCF Camp To Feature Discussion Groups

The United Christian Fellowship Frosh Camp will be held Oct. 8-10 at Camp Yukita on Catawba Island, near Port Clinton, according to the Rev. Paul Bock, UCF director.

Freshmen are advised to sign up and pay the $5 registration in the Wesley Bldg. as soon as possible because the capacity of Camp Yukita limits the number to 80 students and faculty. The first 30 freshman girls and the first 30 freshman boys will be accepted. The remaining students will be upperclassmen with a small percentage of the faculty attending, Mr. Bock said.

Features of the weekend will include discussions pertaining to problems of special interest to freshmen, bull sessions and faculty lead topics.

Students will leave from the Wesley Bldg. by car at 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 8, and will return after lunch Sunday, Oct. 10.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS

The English department will sponsor the showing of four educational films for students at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Rec Hall. The films, on loan from the Cornet Films Company, are, "American Literature: Early National Period"; "Literature Appreciation"; "How to Write Effectively"; and "Propaganda Techniques."

Freshman Rushing Postponed 8 Weeks

The Interfraternity gavel was rapped for the first time this semester Wednesday night in the new meeting room 200A, and the new president, Richard Humphrey, brought the newly organized group to order.

Probably the biggest change in the IFC organization this year is the attendance of all fraternity presidents. The purpose of their attendance is thought to "strengthen the efficiency" of the group.

Along with the strengthening of IFC, each fraternity will plan a process of building its spiritual strength for the purpose of also building a more closely knit organization, it was decided.

"There are less men in the fraternity houses than there have been for the last five or six years," Humphrey stated. "This presents financial problems to many fraternities," he added.

It was reported that every fraternity had an increase in grade averages last semester over the previous semester. To keep such standards, IFC felt that fraternity spirit needs to be built up, and it is very essential to attract men to rushing the fraternities.

IFC postponed freshman rushing until after mid-semester. The reason for this is three-fold. First, it will give the freshmen a chance to devote more time to their studies. Second, it will give the fraternities more time to organize a better program for rushing. Finally, it will give both fraternity men and freshmen more time to get acquainted with each other, along with the ever-changing campus surroundings.

Fraternity Life Is Topic Of Meeting

Interfraternity Council held its Freshmen Fraternity Night in the Main Auditorium Monday night for the purpose of orienting the freshmen about fraternity life.

"Toast to Our Brothers," was the title of a movie shown, along with a talk by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, University president. Arch B. Conklin, dean of students, gave a talk on fraternity life.

Seniors Meet At First Assembly, Hear Purposes

By GERALD MURRAY

The senior class met together for the first time since their freshman orientation in 1951, for the first President's Convocation at 11 a.m. Thursday in the Main Aud.

The meeting included group singing, an explanation of the purpose of the convocation by Dr. Ralph G. Harshman, dean of administration, a listing of the objectives of the senior class by president Donald Packard, and an address by University President Ralph W. McDonald, concerning the progress of the University.

Following an organ prelude played by Carol Payne and an invocation by University Chaplain Dr. Walter A. Zaugg, Dean Harshman explained the convocations to be a new "scheme" by which the University and its students may become a more closely-knit body.

Five Purposes

Dean Harshman listed five purposes for the convocations to provide direct weekly contact of the students with the President of the University and other University officials so scheduled that in four weeks period all the students would be included; to keep the entire University completely informed about the University's plans, policies, and progress through authentic sources; to give expression to the friendliness and unity of the campus through regular group singing and fellowship; to emphasize the fundamental values and goals of a college education, and to provide a clearing house for announcements regarding the plans and activities of the respective classes and colleges.

Some years ago, Dean Harshman stated, the University had a system of assemblies by which the entire student body could be gathered together. With the growth of the University, it became impossible to find a place where the entire student body could be accommodated, and the programs were discontinued. By assembling at least the classes and colleges for weekly convocations, a means of orienting and better means of communication has been inaugurated.

What To Expect

In summary, Dean Harshman said, the convocations are designed to give the students a "better grasp of the University, what its goals are, and what we can expect throughout the year."

Dean Harshman was followed on the program by the group singing "God Bless America," and "Love's Sweet Song," directed by Prof. Merrill C. McEwen, chairman of the department of music.

Senior class president Donald Packard addressed the class concerning the objectives and goals for the class of 1955. Packard outlined two ideas which would provide better communications and closer relationships among the members of the class.

Packard's Plans

He introduced plans for a senior picnic in the spring and for senior dormitory and house representatives who would disseminate news of class proceeding to seniors in their dormitories. He also expressed the hope that the senior class might leave a gift to the University upon its graduation which would be more unusual and something by which the class would be remembered.

Finally, he expressed his desire for unification of the senior class, and for a year of accomplishments by the class which would distinguish it from other graduating groups of the University.

President McDonald explained several facts about the University and the senior class in the main address of the assembly. He also listed long-range building plans for Bowling Green which architects are now planning.

Birds of a feather—54 per cent of the 1951 freshman class, now the senior class, met last Thursday for the President's Convocation. The Class of '55 has the highest return-to-school rate in University history.

Inset, senior class president Don Packard and treasurer Fran Miller talk with Dr. Walter A. Zaugg, University Chaplain and director of Alumni Relations. Miss Miller has been elected class treasurer for four consecutive years.

President To Tell Of Union Plans

Pres. Ralph W. McDonald has announced that Thursday's convocation for the junior class will include up-to-the-minute information on the plans for the new Student Union.

Presidents of University organizations and clubs, especially those of the senior class, are welcome to attend to gather the information and report it to their groups. The balcony of the Main Aud. will be opened specifically for these student leaders.

A full account of the President's address will appear in Tuesday's issue of The B-G News.

McDonald Tells Of University's Long-Term Plan

In his address to the senior class Thursday at the first President's Convocation, University President Ralph W. McDonald revealed surprising long-range plans for the University.

Plans for classroom and dormitory buildings are being worked out in such a way that it could be possible, if needed, to locate buildings on University grounds which could accommodate an enrollment of 7,000 to 10,000 students, he announced.

Several of the present buildings will be converted in the future. Once the city has sufficient room for its elementary students, the University Elementary School will be used as headquarters for the College of Education.

Following the construction of the new Music Bldg. west of the Library, he said the Practical Arts Bldg. will be used for the College of Business Administration. Kohl Hall will be re-converted for men when housing is better established for the women students, completing a quadrangle of men's residences on the east campus.

A women's residence center, he added, has been planned for the area west of the Library, and in the future another residential center for women will be planned in another area.

In a plan to build classroom buildings close enough that students may take electives outside of their major college, a quadrangle of buildings is being planned north of the Chemistry Bldg. to Merry Ave., west on Merry Ave. to East and West Halls, and back along N. College Dr. to Ridge St.

Several other general announcements were made by Pres. McDonald. He explained that a system of charging students for medicals and pharmaceuticals has been introduced this year because the University has in the last several years operated the health service with more than $22,000 in losses between the amount of service given.

Other announcements included this senior class has set a record as a class which he believes to have the largest percentage of survival for the entire four years. He said 54 percent of the number of freshmen enrolled in 1951 have returned this year for their senior year.

Nest To Be Sold To Highest Bidder

The old Falcons Nest, which for approximately 12 years has served as a substitute for the University Student Union, will no longer remain on campus, but will be sold to the highest bidder and removed by a contractor, according to Pres. Ralph W. McDonald.

Before it is sold, he explained, items of equipment will be removed, including such things as the heating and plumbing systems. Its wormy chestnut wood will be salvaged and used in the new Student Union, for which construction will begin in March.

The Nest has been closed in advance to allow time to move and transfer equipment, take bids, and disassemble the building. Dr. McDonald added that it is up to the contractor how it will be torn down, but that it is not possible to move it in one piece because of the concrete-base construction.

'Key To Big Three' Is Religious Theme

"The Key to the Big Three" will be the theme of the 1954 Religious Emphasis Week, according to Maxine Brown, general chairman.

Religious Emphasis Week is sponsored by the University committee, the Religious Activities Commission, and is an annual program on the campus.

Group chairman include Benet Litherland, bull sessions; Dorothy Spooner, book display; Celia Lalonde, welcoming and housing; Robert Schwartz, publicity; Donald Davis, seminars and panel discussions; David Rowe, personal consultations and coffee hour; Nancy Hartman, program; Mary Jeanne Connelly, cover design, and Sally Moran and Virginia Pierce, evaluation.

Picnic Ends Big Sister Events

The third Association of Women Students, big sister-little sister picnic was held Saturday morning in City Park, with several hundred University Women attending.

The picnic started at 10 a.m., with the women hiking out to the park in a mass group. When they got to the park, they divided into groups and played basketball, softball, ping pong, volleyball, and badminton. One group did the hucklebuck, and another participated in group singing. Several of the women spent their time on the swings, teeter totter, and merry-go-round.

Lunch started about 11:30 a.m. Each girl brought her own picnic lunch, which was furnished by the house or dormitory in which she lived. AWS furnished ice cold soda pop.

After lunch, several women left for campus, however, many stayed until later in the afternoon and resumed their game of volleyball, or softball.

The picnic climaxed the big sister-little sister program for this year, said Lois Radomsky, president of AWS. Each big sister picked up her little sister to take her out to the picnic, and several big sisters invited the little sisters back to their houses with them after the picnic. Miss Radomsky stated that every effort was made to find a big sister for each freshman woman, and that the plan worked better this year than last. Plans are being made for next year's big-sister program.

Plans are being made for the events scheduled by AWS for the year. The women's leadership banquet will be held Oct. 29. Miss Radomsky said that plans also are responding secretary; Jane Metzger, recording secretary, and Patricia Limbird, treasurer. These girls were elected last spring by the members of AWS, which includes every woman registered as a student at this University.

In Our Opinion

They Were Commendable

The first President's Convocation, involving the seniors, is commendable for at least three reasons.

First, it was the first time the senior class has been assembled since its orientation week in September of 1951. Second, it is commendable because it was the first opportunity to speak to this class of students since their freshman year, when he, as new president of the University, addressed them as new students.

Third, the convocations have been launched with considerable success. From comments we have heard, many of the seniors who were skeptical at the thought of attending a "high schoolish" assembly, were appreciative that someone should explain just what is going on in this University. One person even went so far as to say, "I actually enjoyed the singing."

We'd like to list a fourth reason for commending the convocations, but at this time it is not possible. Only the senior class can decide whether it shall carry out the plans offered them by Don Packard, their president. Whether the senior class shall be remembered as "the class of '55" will be determined only by the seniors.

Rallies Lose Pep

University students paraded to another successful "pep" rally Saturday morning, successful from the standpoint of attendance.

But was the desired effect of the rally realized? The goal of the early morning affair, was to install vigor into the campus for cheering at the Miami game and for the entire football season. Yet, it seems that the student body, having arisen at such an odd time, is too tired by game time to do much else than nod when the team puts on a spirited display, and even less when the sporting event is one-sided.

Furthermore, fraternities and sororities attend the event more as a social obligation and necessity than from the amount of pep they supposedly will receive. Freshmen responded to the rally because the idea is novel and receptive the first time, but this impression wears off.

Might it not be a more enjoyable event, and more practical, to hold a pep rally and bonfire either the Friday evening before a Saturday afternoon game, or the Saturday afternoon prior to a night game?

If such timing were selected, the event might be more enhanced by the presence and introduction of the football squad and coaches, more short speeches, and far better cheering than is physical possible after four hours sleep.

In Memoriam

The B-G News lost one of its most recent alumni this summer with the death of Peter Ray.

Pete was sports editor for this newspaper approximately one and a half years, and was graduated only last year with a degree in journalism. He was a member of the men's journalism honorary, Delta Sigma, serving as secretary last year, and was also a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

His death occurred unexpectedly in August, following brain surgery in the University Hospital in Columbus.

We wish to extend our sympathy to his mother and brother of Findlay, Ohio, his fraternity brothers, and his many friends on this campus.

Lines at Deadline

(Editor's Note: As is customary each year, this column is to be the editor's attempt at what has been in recent years the popular Lines at Deadline column. If you consider the quality of this year's column to be knocked down a peg or two in interest, you may be assured he'll do a good job of stomping it to death.

With all proper journalistic procedure, all the comments you will read in this column will be true—only the facts shall be changed.)

It seems only natural each year for some confused freshman to find during the calling of the role that he is attending the wrong class session. So far, The B-G News has heard no comments in this direction, but this year we've caught a professor.

It seems one professor was scheduled to instruct two courses at the same time in the same room. Not only that, but several of the students were enrolled in both classes.

This in itself is not such a disastrous problem, since one of the class times can be arranged at another hour. The problem is that a third class in the same department was being held in an adjoining room at the same time. Of all things, one of the students was enrolled in all three classes.

We made the New Yorker magazine this summer when it got hold of a mistake The B-G News had printed last spring in regard to Dr. Donald C. Kleckner, of the speech department. Dr. Kleckner, we printed, along with 80 other students from some 20 countries, was to attend a Summer Shakespeare course at Avon-On-Stratford in England. The New Yorker's comment? "They better take their water wings."

In last Tuesday's issue of The B-G News, Mrs. Mary K. Herriff was listed as the official hostess of the University. This, of course, is not true. Mrs. Ralph W. McDonald is the first lady of this campus, while Mrs. Herriff is hostess in the University Guest House.

One engaged coed explains in disgust of the dormitory bed checks at 12 midnight, "They flash a flashlight in your eyes to make sure you're sleeping."

Emphasis today seems to be upon faux pas, so we'll conclude with this one.

A coed student leader got her buildings disarranged during orientation, and found herself speaking at the right time to the wrong group of freshmen.

Sad to say, and let's hope this public apology will cool her down, yours truly sent her to the building.

Henne Appointed; 17 Other ROTC Cadets Given High Rank

Carl Henne Jr. has been selected to serve as regimental commander of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps by Col. Thomas R. Malone Jr., professor of military science and tactics. Henne will have the rank of lieutenant colonel. He is past commander of the Pershing Rifles, military recognition society for honor ROTC cadets.

Seventeen other cadet officer appointments have been announced by Colonel Malone for the highest ranks in the corps. Edward Halter, James Bick, and Harold Yawberg were named cadet majors. The 14 seniors appointed cadet captains are: Ralph Vander Vliucht, William Rogers, Richard Johoske, Stanley Steed, Elmer Gough, Thomas Carroll, Bennett Litherland, Richard Berk, William Bradshaw, Lynn Babcock, Victor Springer, Samuel Martin, Franklyn West, and Walter Lundwall.

The remainder of the MS IV students will be cadet first and second lieutenants.

Top posts among the MS III students were given to six cadets named first sergeants. They are Paul Atkinson, Robert Baker, Frank Pellegrino, Eugene France, Charles Griminger, and Donley Mumma. All other third year military science students will serve as cadet sergeants.

Official Announcements

All off-campus freshman students should report to the front door of the Library Thursday at 11 a.m. or 4 p.m. to have their key pictures taken.

Off-campus women will be able to pay their Association of Women Students dues in the Well from 10 a.m. until 12 noon on Tuesday, and from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Friday.

Two representatives from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes are needed for the Student Senate spirit committee. Applications are available in the Office of Student Activities 200 Ad Bldg.

A Phi O Bookstore Pays Students Today

The Alpha Phi Omega used book store will be open today and tomorrow to pay students whose books were sold this semester. Obsolete books may be obtained during this period.

Hours will be 9 to 11:30 a.m., and 2 to 4 p.m. today. Tomorrow hours will be 9 to 10 a.m., and 1 to 4 p.m.

With the profits from the bookstore, Alpha Phi Omega, national men's service fraternity, set up an annual scholarship fund for students completing their freshman year with more than 3.0 accumulative average. Last spring the first award was given to Charles Mantel, a chemistry major.

The scholarship of $150 is to be used for University expenses. Information about the scholarship may be obtained from Robert E. McKay, student financial aid counselor, or Alpha Phi Omega.

Writers Say Restricted Social Activities Exist For Wives

Dear Editor:

When are the wives of students going to get a break and be allowed to go with their husbands to all school activities? Last year it took me five months to find out my wife could go to the free movies if she got a pass. But no one seemed to know where you could get a pass.

Why can't wives get reduced rate tickets for football games, the artist series, plays, and other school events? It is expensive enough as it is to get through school without having to pay full price for your wife's ticket and two full prices if you want to sit with her at a football game, as an example. It is even more expensive for the married student with children. He has to get a paid baby sitter in addition to tickets. If a student takes a girl it costs him a nickel, if he takes his wife he has to pay through the nose.

Last year we went to the football game. My wife couldn't get in the student gate and I wasn't allowed through the regular gate. Once in the stands, she couldn't get to the student section and I wasn't allowed in the paid admissions section. We were able to walk home together without paying any extra.

Perhaps through the B-G News we can get some relief from this situation.

A husband who would like to keep his wife.
Robert S. Simpson

Dear Editor:

There are many married students on the campus whose wives are not students, and because they are not students cannot attend University athletic and social events with their husbands.

In order for a married male student to take his wife to one of these events and be able to sit with her he must either sneak her in as a student in some way or buy a general admissions ticket for her; leave her wander for herself to get into the event and then attempt to find her. This being accomplished, he has two choices. He can sneak himself into the general admissions section in order to be with her or he can sneak her into the student section.

This situation has prevailed for the past few years and to date no remedy has been made. I for one would not mind paying an additional fee at registration time to get my Ac card stamped married or some similar words, so I could present it and receive two tickets instead of one.

Many times at last year's foot-

Study-Habit Movies Are Shown Tonight

A special showing of two short movies on study habits will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in the Main Aud., according to Prof. H. Glendon Steele, assistant to the dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

The movies, sponsored by the three undergraduate colleges, are especially for the freshman class, but other students interested in seeing the films may attend. The movies are expected to last approximately 35 minutes. Mr. Steele said, and are entitled, "How to Concentrate," and "How to Study."

Falcons' First Night Game Spoiled By Redskins, 46-7

BY JACK BEHRENS

Speed, power, and depth were the three keys to victory last Saturday night at the Bowling Green Stadium as the Miami Redskins smothered the Falcons, 46 to 7.

The Falcons, playing their first night contest under the new lights at the Stadium, were virtually powerless to cope with the superior Redskins attack. Led by Bob Wallace, Ed Merchant, Dean Porter, and Tirrel Burton, Miami piled up 21 first downs and 431 yards rushing, while Bowling Green was able to get only 4 first downs and 58 yards on the ground.

The Falcon air attack also got little success as BG completed 5 out of 11 passes for 35 yards. Miami, however, completed 7 out of 9 throws for 63 yards.

Bowling Green's lone touchdown came at the outset of the fourth quarter, when quarterback Bill Bradshaw flipped a 15 yard pass to end Chuck Kisselle on the goal line. Jim Bryan booted the extra point.

Miami's first score came only eight plays after the opening kickoff, when Redskin halfback Ed Merchant smashed through the right side of the BG forward wall for 27 yards and a touchdown. Stan Jones muffed the extra point. Later in the first period, the Falcons recovered two Miami fumbles, but BG was unable to dent the Miami line for a score.

In the second stanza, Miami climaxed an 80 yard drive with a 20 yard pass from quarterback Dick Hunter to Tirrel Burton on the goal line, for the Redskins' second touchdown. Burton tallied for a second time a few minutes before the close of the period, and the score was 19 to 0 at half-time.

The Redskins scored again only minutes after the opening of the third quarter, on a 7 yard run by Bob Wallace. Jones' conversion was good. Tom Mooney, intercepting a Bradshaw pass, set up the fifth Miami touchdown deep in Falcon territory. Dean Porter rolled for 15 yards, and then through

PRESSBOX PORTRAITS

By DICK BUDD

"We had more spirit than that in a high school of 250." That was just one of the many comments overheard from freshmen and visitors after the Miami game Saturday night. And while the Bowling Green student body sat making less noise than they did about the new cut system, a handful of Miami students provided the only similarity to a college cheering section.

The blame certainly doesn't lie with the cheerleaders. The squad is just as good if not better than it has been in recent years. Bowling Green has what it takes. That was proved last year during the basketball season and at the NIT. If a team always has to be winning for the students on this campus to show their spirit then something is really lacking in the personality of the student body.

The new defense that paid off so well against Dayton was in evidence last night. From here it proves two things. What happened to Dayton wasn't just a fluke on our part and that Miami is better than they looked on paper. It will be very interesting to see the outcome of the Miami-Indiana game next month.

Bob Bronston, 190-pound Miami senior fullback, is the school's first Negro captain in any sport. Ara Parseghian, Miami coach, said the squad's vote for Bronston was "more nearly unanimous than at any other time in my years at Miami." Bronston also was vice-president of the Miami junior class and now is president of the varsity letterman's organization.

Miami hasn't always been tough. Digging back in history we've found that Ohio Wesleyan more than took care of the Redskins in 1891 by a 104-0 humiliation. Again in 1904 Miami came out on the wrong side of an 80-0 count against Ohio State.

Tom Jones, big Miami tackle, wears the biggest shoe ever issued a Miami athlete, size 14.

Bill Bradshaw is trailing his punting average of last year by about five yards. This is by no means an indication of the season outcome. Bradshaw hasn't lost a thing in his specialty department and is probably the main reason that Miami didn't score more than they did Saturday night.

There wasn't an unusual amount of smoking at the stadium Saturday night. Some thoughtful concern just picked the wrong time to blow their stacks. Watching the stands from above, it looked as if a sudden shower had let loose with people zipping their jackets and covering heads with programs. The newest color rage on campus is now soot grey. Condolances to those who were wearing white coats, pink sweaters and grey flannel suits. Bowling Green too can be proud of their SMOG.

Bowling Green students can look on the World Series with a little added pride this fall, knowing that a former student from our campus will undoubtedly be making headlines.

Giant ace hurler, Johnny Antonelli, attended BGSU for the fall semester in 1948. John came to Bowling Green because his brother Tony was a student here.

Greeks Pal For Pre-Dawn Rally, Sponsor Dance

Pi Kappa Alpha will sponsor a street dance "Pi Kap Kappers," Saturday night after the football game which will last until midnight.

Dancing will be in the street behind the fraternity house, with the bandstand set up on the lawn behind the house. Music will be provided by Ray Thomas' Kampus Katts.

Delta Zeta and Sigma Phi Epsilon attended the pre-dawn pep rally together Saturday morning and went to breakfast at the DZ house.

Other groups who teamed for the rally were: Gamma Phi Beta and Alpha Tau Omega, with breakfast at the Gamma Phi house; Phi Mu and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, with breakfast at the Phi Mu house; Alpha Xi Delta and Sigma Chi, with breakfast at Alpha Xi house, and Pi Kappa Alpha, with Shatzel Hall.

Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Sigma teamed for the rally, with the Kappa Sigma entertaining the Alpha Chi's at breakfast. Alpha Phi had breakfast for the Sigma Nu's after the rally at the Phi house, and Kappa Delta entertained the Phi Delta Thetas at breakfast at the KD house.

Alpha Delta Pi plans an exchange dinner with the Sig Eps Wednesday night. ADPI teamed with Phi Kappa Tau for the rally Saturday morning, with breakfast at the ADPI house.

Theta Chi held open house after the game Saturday night, and teamed with Alpha Gamma Delta for the rally Saturday morning, with breakfast at the Alpha Gam house.

Zeta Beta Tau teamed with Chi Omega for the rally and served breakfast to the Chi O's. ZBT had a record party Saturday night for their dates, and held open house Saturday night after the game.

Delta Tau Delta entertained Delta Gamma at a breakfast at the Delt House following the pre-dawn pep rally Saturday.

Saturday night the Deltas held a combo party for their dates at the house. Guests included members of the Miami University Delt chapter.

Bock Announces UCF Fall Plans

United Christian Fellowship Sunday night programs, at 6 p.m. in the Rec Hall, will commence with an October series centered around "World Understanding," according to the Rev. Paul Bock, UCF director.

The theme in November will concern vocational problems, and additional films on various phases of religious and science will be added to the Sunday evening program.

UCF also sponsors the weekly Wednesday vesper services at 4 p.m. in Prout Chapel, and the Friday Forum, conducted at 6:30 each Friday evening by students, faculty and outside speakers in the Wesley Bldg.

Other fall plans include work camps in Toledo, beginning Oct. 31 for four consecutive weekends. The camps are service projects planned for northwestern Ohio college students. The current problem is surveying the Negro housing situation in the Toledo area. Week-end camps in Columbus will follow later in the fall. Interested students are asked to contact Rev. Bock in the Wesley Bldg.

During the year, statewide conferences of both major denominations and the YMCA-YWCA will offer further opportunity for student attendance and service.

Newman Club Plans Meeting, Breakfast

Fall plans for the Newman Club include special communion breakfasts, study clubs, general meetings, and personal counseling, according to Father John Ollivier, club adviser.

The first general meeting will be held on Sept. 30 in the Newman Hall, at St. Aloysius church. Richard Moss and Thomas Conway will provide entertainment for the program.

On Oct. 3, Newman Club will hold the first communion breakfast of the fall year, at which time tickets will be raffled off for the Notre Dame-Michigan State game. Al Bianchi will be presented an award for the outstanding Catholic athlete of the year.

A hayride and square dance has been planned for Oct. 8 in Providence, and a picnic with the Toledo University Newman Club has been set for Oct. 24 at Sidecut Park, Maumee.

The Philosophy Study Club will begin on Oct. 11 at 4:15 p.m. and will be conducted at that time on Mondays and Thursdays throughout the year. The Theology Study Club will also begin Oct. 11, and will meet on Mondays and Thursdays at 8:15 p.m. at the church.

Father Ollivier is available for personal counseling on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, from 2:30-4 p.m. in the East room of the Chapel.

Seniors Meet

With the group singing the "Alma Mater," the convocation was concluded. Each student as he left the auditorium turned in a signed attendance card to administrative secretaries posted at the exits.

This Thursday at 11 a.m. the junior class will meet in the Main Aud. for the second of the President's Convocations. The 11 o'clock class hour is free from regularly scheduled classes.

Rules For Sports In Bermuda Shorts

The Association of Women Students has decided that Bermuda shorts are in the same classification as jeans. They may not be worn in classes, offices, library, or dining halls for lunch and dinner, Sunday and special guest days, and to go down town. A coat must still be worn over regular shorts.

To clarify a former rule, a woman student leaving campus to go home before her last class on Friday must get a green out-of-town slip from the source listed in the Woman's Handbook.

Marketing Association Only BA Club

The Bowling Green Marketing Association, at present the only student club in the College of Business Administration, will get into full swing this semester according to James Ronni, president of the club.

The organization was formed last spring by a group of 25 juniors and seniors to provide a means for informal exchange of ideas among students and faculty of the College of Business Administration and to promote intergration between the business community and education for business management, especially in the field of marketing.

Plans for the semester include prominent speakers from the fields of marketing, retailing, advertising, and credit management, field trips to local business firms, and trips to meetings of the Toledo Chapter of the American Marketing Association.

The group is also in charge of the proposed trip to Chicago sometime in October to visit the board of trade and other business organizations of interest in the marketing fields.

Officers of the club are James Ronni, president; Jack Leonard, vice president; Barbara Howard, secretary, and Harry Thal, treasurer. Lewis Manhart is the official advisor to the organization and Dr. Maurice Mandell is a consultant faculty member. Other consultant members will be added to the club from BG faculty, and Bowling Green and Toledo business men.

Meetings will be held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, the first meeting being at 8 p.m., Sept. 30 in 200 Ad Bldg. All interested juniors and seniors with a major or minor in marketing, credit, sales, advertising, and retailing are invited to attend.

Off-Campus Group To Have Meeting

"This Is My Campus" will be the topic of a panel discussion at the first meeting of the Off-Campus Women Student Organization tonight at 7:30 in 200 Ad Bldg. Barbara Koontz, Marge Riehl, and Sarah Jane Robinson will lead the discussion with Nancy Kaiser as moderator.

Off-campus women will attempt to find the humorous side of the life of a co-ed living off-campus, according to Barbara Koontz, president of the group. She urges all off-campus women to attend, as she will outline the semester's program.

I WAS AWARDED A RIBBON AND PROMPTLY PUT IT IN MY TYPEWRITER

First of all—how come?
How do I come to be writing a column for Philip Morris in your campus newspaper?

I'll tell you how come:
It all began on a summer night. The air was warm, the sky was full of stars, and I sat in a cane-bottomed chair on my verandah, peaceful and serene, smoking a cigarette, humming the largo from Death and Transfiguration, and worming my dog.

Into this idyllic scene came a stranger—a tall, clean limbed stranger, crinkly-eyed and crooked-grinned, loose and lank. "How do you do," he said. "My name is Loose Lank and I am with the Philip Morris people."

"Enchanted," I said. "Take off your homburg and sit down." I clapped my hands. "Charles!" I called. "Another chair for Mr. Lank."

Obediently my dog trotted away and returned directly with a fan-back chair of Malayan rattan. He is the smartest dog in our block.

"I'm sorry I don't have a Morris chair," I said to Mr. Lank. "That would be rather more appropriate—you being with Philip Morris and all."

Well, sir, we had many a laugh and cheer over my little witicism. When we had finished laughing and cheering, we wiped our eyes and Mr. Lank pulled out a fresh package of Philip Morris. He yanked the tape and the pack sprang open with a fetching little snap.

"Did you hear that fetching little snap?" asked Mr. Lank.

"Yes," I said, for I did.

"Cigarette?" he said.

"Thank you," I said.

We puffed contentedly for three or four hours. Then Mr. Lank said, "I suppose you're wondering why I'm here."

"Well," I replied, my old eyes twinkling, "I'll wager you didn't come to read my meter."

You can imagine how we howled at that one!

"That's a doozy!" cried Mr. Lank, giggling wildly. "I must remember to tell it to Alice when I get home."

"Your wife?" I said.

"My father," he said.

"Oh," I said.

"Well," he said, "let's get down to business . . . How would you like to write a campus column for Philip Morris?"

"For money?" I said.

"Yes," he said.

"My hand, sir," I said and clasped his. Warmly he returned the pressure, and soft smiles played on our lips, and our eyes were bright with the hint of tears, and we were silent, not trusting ourselves to speak.

"Cigarette?" he said at length.

I nodded.

We lit up and puffed contentedly for eight or ten hours. "I understand you've made quite a study of college students," said Mr. Lank.

"Yes," I said, blushing modestly. "I have been collecting them for years. I have over four thousand students in my basement right now."

"In mint condition?" he said incredulously.

"Students don't come in mint condition," I explained. "They go to great expense to acquire the 'beat-up look.'"

"How interesting," he said. "Tell me something more about them—their feeding habits, for example."

"They are omnivores of prodigious appetite," I said. "It is wise not to leave food about when they are present. Their favorite food is a dish called the Varsity Gasser—one scoop raspberry ice, one scoop raw hamburger, leeches nuts and maple syrup."

"Fascinating," said Mr. Lank. "And what are students interested in chiefly?"

"Each other," I replied. "Boy students are interested in girl students, and girl students are interested in boy students."

"This seems to me an admirable arrangement," said Mr. Lank. "But is it true even in these parlous days of worldwide tension and dreadful armaments?"

"It is always true," I said. "It isn't that college students don't know what's going on in the world. They know all too well. They're perfectly aware of the number of lumps waiting for them . . . But meanwhile the limbs are springy and the juices run strong and time is fleeting."

"What will you write about in your column?" asked Mr. Lank.

"About boys and girls," I said. "About fraternities and sororities and dormitories and boarding houses and dances and sleighrides and hayrides and cutting classes and going to classes and cramming for exams and campus politics and the profits of bookstores and convertibles and BMOs and BWOCs and professors who write new texts every year and the world's slowest humans—the page boys at the library."

"And will you say a pleasant word about Philip Morris from time to time?" asked Mr. Lank.

"Sir," I replied, "I can think of no other kind of word to say about Philip Morris."

We shook hands again then, and smiled bravely. Then he was gone—a tall silhouette moving erectly into the setting sun. "Farewell, good tobaccoist!" I cried after him. "Aloha, aloha!"

And turned with a will to my typewriter.
